

HORSE TALK

How horses see other animals.....

Cisco in 2008

Copyright ©2016 Institute of the Southwest.

All rights reserved, including electronic.

All of you remember Cisco, our Horse of Light and Spirit Guide.

He has been fully in Spirit since March 30, 2012. He works very hard from his dimension to support and protect the Sanctuary, as well as watching over our clients' horses, dogs and cats when they are ailing. He is the first to alert us when there is a problem. Those of you who use our services have Cisco's dedication to thank for alerting me (and sometimes you, although you may not realize its coming from him) when something is amiss with one of your animal family members.

Cisco wishes to share HOW HORSES SEE OTHER ANIMAL SPECIES. The horses included (except for Cisco) currently have "hooves on the ground." They are all incarnated, physical earthly beings. Cisco tells me their souls are all members of his soul group.

He is the channel for the information included in this article with one exception: Seth the Candeyman who spoke to me directly.

I hope you find their voices inspiring and sometimes humorous. Often their simplicity reveals much about the particular horse. Enjoy this article. Feel free to pass along to your friends.

Janet Meyer, Spirit of Equus Sanctuary

www.spiritofequusrescue.org

CISCO

RAVENS

They are my brothers. We are one and the same the Ravens and me. We look different but we think alike. Here on the ranch they are looking out for me. We are kin; our souls are one. I talk to them. They will be there when I pass to carry my soul back home.

They are harmless, let them be. Talk to them and listen. They have lots to tell about life.

COYOTES

At my third home, I was used as a cow horse and competed in games. I spent a lot of time on trails too. This is where the coyotes talked to me. They were hidden, but they sent me information with their energy.

In this way I was alerted to what was ahead ...they would tell me what was behind rocks and bushes. They told me where the snakes were so I would be careful where I walked. They would tell me if there was a predator nearby.

They kept me aware of my surroundings and this gave me confidence. I was not afraid because they were protecting me. This made me a good partner to my rider. That is why I was a fearless trail horse. I would know when there was danger.

BEES

I don't like bees. They are not very nice. They buzz around my head and I was stung once by my eye.

BOBCATS

At the ranch in New Mexico where I was born, there was a mama bobcat. This was a very large ranch and she and her two young ones lived on it. I would watch her move about, looking for food and water. There was a creek and she would go there with her young ones. She talked with me when I was out grazing. She put a barrier up with her energy. I was not supposed to pass through that barrier. I was not afraid of her. She never threatened to harm me or the other horses. I would tell her when humans were coming. I did this with my energy. We all lived in harmony.

DEER

Deer are quiet animals, light and gentle in their energy. They jump fences and eat vegetation like I do. They are very watchful and their hearing is good. They can warn horses of danger that is still far away. I have lived among deer all my life and enjoy their peaceful nature. We understand each other's concern for safety and protection.

SETH THE CANDEYMAN

Retired bay Thoroughbred racehorse
Age: 12. Incarnated in California

BARN CATS

Cats were my best friends. They kept me company when I was lonely and bored. They could move around from stall to stall at night.

Once when I was moved I grieved over the loss of my cat, but I made friends with another and when I moved back to my former location my cat was there to keep me company again. I like kitty love....the physical touch of the cat.

CHARLEY

Black and white paint stallion
Age 11 Incarnated in California

BARN CATS

I am Charley. I live on a ranch in California. There are 6 barn cats that visit me. Two of them jump on my back and ride around in the pasture where I stay. They sleep on my back when I am standing and napping. At night if I lie down one of the cats curls up next to me.

MULE

There is a mule in our pasture that protects us from coyotes and cougars. He whinnies and chases them away.

COWS

I talk to the cows. They talk to me too. We all live in a big pasture together.

RABBITS There are lots of rabbits. They annoy me and I chase them.

PEACOCKS Mean!

MARCY

Brown Quarter Horse Mare
Age 5 Incarnated in New Mexico

GOATS

The goats and I go our own way. We do not interact. They stay in their area; I stay in mine. We are not turned out together.

FAWNS

I am very fond of fawns. I am a mare and they make me want to be a mother. I do not have young ones of my own. So I watch them and enjoy their visits. I would like to touch them, nuzzle them, but I do not trespass. It would be wrong.

SNAKES

I like snakes. The ones we have near us are peaceful, safe. I am not afraid of them. I sense they are there, but do not see them. They are not dangerous ones.

WOODPECKERS

I spend time in a box stall in a barn. There is a woodpecker that stores his food in holes on the outside of my barn stall. He wakes me up when I am napping, pecking, pecking away. I ask him to go away but he doesn't. I kick at the wall to scare him off. But he comes back. He tells me he has to do this in order to live.

FISH

There is a stream nearby. I sometimes drink from the stream. There are fish swimming around in the stream. The fish make a sound I can hear. This is their voice. It is a greeting. It is not a warning, but an acknowledgment of my being. I like it. I feel welcome. They share the water with me.

FRED

Medium chestnut Standardbred gelding
Age 15 Incarnated in Oklahoma

COYOTES

I am friendly with the coyotes who pass by. Even though I live in a barn, we communicate with each other with a greeting...like saying hello.

DOGS

The dogs that live with us are friendly to me. They come into the barn and they also go with us when we ride on the trails.

OSTRICH

There are ostriches living next to us. They are mean!

CHICKENS

They are noisy. They wake me up!

COWS

I think cows are dumb. They don't know anything. They just stand around.

TRICKSTER

Grey Arabian gelding
Age 12 Incarnated in Maine

CHIHUAHUAS

Bark, bark, bark, bark, bark. Yip, yip, yip yip, yip. Sigh!

GOATS

They come in and eat the left over grass.

BIRDS

I see and hear different kinds of birds. They are building nests in the eaves of the buildings. I watch them take my straw.

PORCUPINES

Danger! I stay away from them.

NINA

10 YO QH MARE BROWN
Incarnated in Florida. Lamé. Had 2 foals.

DUCKS

There are new babies following their mother around. Quack!

FLAMINGOS

I can see them. They live near me. I think they are beautiful! I like birds. I would like to be able to fly.....

POSSUMS

I see a possum sometimes. Odd!

STEER

I see grazing steers.

SAMMIE

Brown QH gelding
Age 8 Incarnated in North Dakota

DEER

Free to run and roam about. I would like to be with them so I could explore too! I see them standing by the trees with snow on the ground. So quiet....can barely hear them when they move. Then they disappear. I turn my attention away and look back and they are gone. The quiet, the silence after the snow comes. So healing.

FOX

Ooo.... Furry, fast! Chickens are his favorite. Bloody snow.....sigh. But must have food. Very hungry. I don't have to look for my own food. My people bring me hay

TINN

Mini horse. Mare. Chestnut with flaxen mane and tail
Age 14.Incarnated in Canada

CATS

Fluffy, warm, curled up. Sits on the lower (Dutch) door . My friend. Curls up with me when I lay down in the barn. Black.Gentle.

OWL

Hoot! Lives in our barn. Night watchman.

COYOTES

Howl and sing to the moon. They are bigger than me. I worry when I hear them in groups. I am protected in my stall at night. The barn door closed. I am the biggest one in the barn....I sometimes get afraid.

RABBITS

They are my friends. They are quiet and peaceful. We eat the same hay. Sometimes we share.

GEORGIE

Black Friesian Gelding
Age 6 Incarnated in Arizona

PUPPIES

Playing around my feet. Nipping at my feet. I try not to step on them. They want me to run and play with them and try to chase me.

MULES

They kick and bite at each other. There are two. They are grumpy. I don't think they like each other.